A New Home for Field Papers

Mar 28, 2023 · Jess Beutler and Alan McConchie

OpenStreetMap US is excited to announce the adoption of Field Papers into the suite of tools we support for the larger OSM community. Over the course of 2023, Stamen and OpenStreetMap US will be working together on this transition and develop a plan for sustainable maintenance of this beloved community tool.

For the past 11 years, Field Papers has been a favorite tool for the OpenStreetMap community, and for many, it was the entry point for participatory mapping. Originally designed by Michal Migurski as Walking Papers, Field Papers as we know it today was

SketchMap Tool

Create re-digitizable paper maps for offline data collection in the field

The Sketch Map Tool is an easy-to-use tool for participatory sketch mapping through offline collection, digitization and georeferencing of local spatial knowledge.
The tool has a variety of applications. For example, do you want to work together with people in a community to map their experience and perception of risk in their neighbourhood in a paper-based format, but still be able to quickly analyse the results digitally? Then, the Sketch Map Tool is exactly what you need!

1

Create Paper Maps to Collect Data

THEN

2

Paper to GIS: Automatically Digitize Your Sketch Maps

Scan or photograph your marked Sketch Maps → Upload your Sketch Maps → Download collected Markings as Geodata
